

THE LEADERSHIP GAME

Next year the game might change - but it is still the same game

Providing the conditions to improve leadership capability is key to your organisation sustaining high quality teaching.

If we don't crave discomfort we will never embrace challenges.
If we only go for the short-term sugar hit we will never embed change and innovation.
If we don't play the hard game we will never be part of the winning team.

So take this opportunity as an organisation to:

- Identify and foster future leaders to support continuity and succession planning
 - Build leadership capability in current leaders to drive ongoing improvement
 - Invest in time as a leadership team to step aside and reassess your game plan

Over the three days we will focus on:

- Developing strategies for managing change to stay ahead
- Building a kete of coaching skills to stay above the quality threshold
- Aiming for results that never settle for just a good game
