

ONLINE
WORKSHOP

DO YOU FIND GIVING AND RECEIVING FEEDBACK A CHALLENGE?

Whether you are an early childhood leader or kaiako, giving and receiving feedback is notoriously tricky. Givers often soften messages to avoid conflict, while Receivers instantly trigger defence.

Register now for this concise and focused online session, designed to build confidence when engaging in professional conversations with colleagues that focus on actions and behaviours.

This workshop will explore...

Ways to normalise a culture of feedback in your team to build confidence in proactively requesting feedback. This supports creating safe spaces where feedback is treated as a routine "gift" rather than something to be wary of.

Requirements of the 2026 Standards of the Teaching Profession (Focus area 7.3 Engage with colleagues to improve practice)

Three different types of feedback relating to career stage

The challenges of both giving and receiving feedback, and strategies for success

Join us to strengthen your centre's approach to building reflective practice across your team.

Linking with key systems

Professional Growth Cycles

Assessment,
Planning and Evaluation

Facilitated by: Liz Depree

Date: Monday 26 October 2026,
3.30pm – 4.30pm

Investment: $50 +GST per person

Scan Here

for more information or to Register
or visit

<https://www.interlead.co.nz/?p=24692>

